

Mr. Davide, a mystery about the new Leathermen Italy 2011

Maybe it has been the answer about his age that enchanted the public, but of course, between the 7 applicants for the title, Davide from Brescia won.

At the question "How old are you?", jury and everyone else had to ask for a spelling...

"F-i-f-t-y f-o-u-r" seemed to be the first answer of the applicant number 3, but suddenly, with a malicious light in his blue eyes, he added "You'll never know my real age, so let it be between 40 and 50". Other precious information about Davide are that he is a high school teacher, a painter and a sculptor and he lives in Brescia, a medium-size town in the north of Italy, near Milan.

Going ahead with his description, we could say, he is really involved with Leather in general, in love with beauty, fascinated by trips and travels, has such a great energy that very often he is the last one to leave Italian and European Leather parties and, of course, has such a great set of clothes to make Queen Elisabeth II green with envy.

In addition, he is always free for a smile and he never falls silent.

Enough?

Davide, the night he became Mr. Leatherman Italy, reached a personal dream: to represent the Italian Leather Community in the world. He will be the one who will dress the banner that has been presented by Claudio, Mr. Leathermen Italy 2010, after he wore it in the past year; some joker suggested David will wear it even while sleeping.

So, to conclude, to Claudio goes our thanks for having taken our flag high, and to Davide our support for future events, especially for Mister Leather Europe 2011 competition, where he will face other European applicants.

What else?!? Davide, we are happy for you and our support will reach Copenhagen, where we hope you will get another incredible success.
